BOARD DATA

EDITOR'S FOREWORD TO THE BASIC BOARDS

AND SACRIFICE BOOKLET SECTION

John Cochrane, August, 2022

The APBA community had a bad day on Good Friday, 2021. On April 2, 2021, we lost a man who was not only a pillar of our hobby, but among the finest, kindest, and most accomplished, human beings it has ever been my pleasure to know. Dr. Frank Alexander Welsh, III, known to us all as "Dusty," lost his battle with leukemia that day, two years after his diagnosis, at the age of 77. Our memorial to him is more fully presented in another part of this site. No tribute we can place for him does him justice.[1]

Buried in our personal loss was what we thought to be the end of one of the most monumental singular pieces of research represented on this site. Dusty's work in cataloguing the changes in the APBA baseball basic game boards and sacrifice booklets from their original publication in 1951 through the day he passed took years of work, thousands of miles of travel, herculean mental strength, and the patience of Job. It is a staggering accomplishment, and perhaps the most major addition that has been made in the online Handbook over and above what was in Ed Zack's printed versions.

But, as Ed taught us, the Cosmos provides all we need. About a year after Dusty's passing, I received an email from my fellow Class of 2009 Hall of Famer, Captain Dom Provisiero. Seems that Dom had a friend who had been following Dusty's work for some time, and had some amendments and amplifications to make to Dusty's oeuvre. Thus the Handbook Board was blessed to recognize Gus Kottis as a Handbook Contributor. With strong editorial help from John Olsen, Gus has revised and brought forward Dusty's work; Dusty's work with Gus' additions follows, and now bears both names.

Welcome, Gus. You share a byline with an icon. You arrived just in time.

[1]Many, if not most of us, only found out from one of the speakers at Dusty's funeral, held in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic, that the MRNA research which formed the basis for the vaccines that were and are crucial to our moving past this viral scourge, started when Dusty donated lab space to the original researcher, who could not otherwise obtain it. I am old enough to have been to many funerals–I do not remember any other at which a statement from the pulpit elicited a gasp of amazement and admiration from the congregation.

Revisions of the Basic Playing Boards for the APBA Baseball Game

Frank A. "Dusty" Welsh & Gus Kottis

The APBA playing boards for the basic baseball game have undergone multiple revisions since the original 1951 version. However, the number of versions that exist, as well as the time of their introduction, has not been previously documented. My interest in the board revisions was kindled during a 1953 basic game replay in which I was using the original cards for the 1953 season and the boards from a 1976 game. I assumed that, apart from the addition of the pitching and base-running symbols, the play results on the 1976 boards were nearly identical to those on the 1953 boards. As I played, however, I wondered how many of the play results had been changed between 1953 and 1976 and to what extent these changes might affect the outcome of an inning or a game. Thus began a quest to identify the changes in the play results between 1953 and 1976. This quest was soon expanded to document all of the revisions in the basic game boards.

The first step was to obtain early versions of the boards, or copies of them. Because no dates were printed on the early boards, complete games were needed to identify their vintage. With the help of many individuals in the APBA community, most, if not all, versions of the basic game boards have been tracked down (Table 1) In some cases, the vintage was deduced by comparing the play results with those in versions of known vintage. Revisions of the boards were frequent during the 1950s; no fewer than nine were produced in this decade. My assumption that there was a one-to-one correspondence between card seasons and board versions proved to be incorrect. Complete games containing the 1952 season cards have been found with two different versions of the boards, and a third version may have been used with this same season. Similarly, multiple versions of the boards have been associated with other card seasons. Presumably, when the game company's supply of boards ran low, a new batch of boards was printed, sometimes incorporating revisions in the play results.

Finding the different versions of the boards was fascinating to me, but identifying the changes in play results between different versions was tedious. This was my method of study. First, I made Xerox copies of each version, reducing the size of the playing boards to 8x11 for convenience. Second, I compared the play results between two consecutive versions, beginning with the earliest and highlighting any alterations on the latter version. In this manner, I marched through the nineteen versions, highlighting any revisions. I found it useful to distinguish between three types of revisions in play results. The first (Type I), and most significant, involved a change in the number of outs and/or position of the runners, thus potentially altering the outcome of an inning. For example, changing an out to a hit, or giving a runner an extra base, was considered a Type I revision. Type II revisions changed the way a batter reached base (hit instead of an error), or changed the fielder making an out, with no change in the number of outs or position of baserunners. Thus, the status of the game was not affected by Type II revisions. Finally, Type III revisions were changes in wording, without a change in the actual play.

Table 1. Chronology of the APBA Board Revisions

#	Season(s)	Major Changes and/or Identifying Features
1	1950	Patterned after National Pastime boards; Addition of pitching and fielding grades; Two large boards (14" x 22") and large game box
2	1951	Several errors changed to outs; Some play results switched between fielding grades
3	1952	Reassignment of outs on play results 8, 9, and 10
4	1952	Addition of hit-and-run to sacrifice booklet (runner on first only); Elimination of "batter takes second on throw" on play result 7 with runners on first and third
5	1952	Hit-by-pitch changed to error on play result 23 with bases empty; Doubleplay changed to fielder's choice on play result 12 with runner on first
6	1953-1954	Ball and strike counts added to play results 10 and 11 on stolen bases
7	1954-1955	Four smaller boards (14" x 11") and smaller game box; Addition of optional pitching rules (grade reduction after 6 ER/3 IP)
8	1956-1958	Addition of pitching (W,X,Y,Z) and running symbols (F,S); Optional base coaching (playing it safe); optional fielding rules; Hit-and-run with runners on first and third added to sacrifice booklet; New font; several revisions in play results unrelated to new symbols
9	1958-1959	X and Y added to play results 27, 33, and 34 with bases empty; Several play results switched between fielding grades
10a	1959-1960	Addition of large letters "A", "B", "C", and "D" to boards; Daggers used to denote extra-base hit on double-column cards
10b	1960-1962	Grade reduction after 5 ER in 3 IP; Play result 22 with runner on first changed to hit-by-pitch
11	1963-1966	Alteration of two fielding plays with two outs
12	1967-1976	New font; changes in sacrifice fly balls
13	1977-1984	Addition of play result 14* and 42 to boards (previously on cards)
14	1985-1994	© 1986 printed on boards; thinner cardboard stock in later years
15	1995-1998	Color-coded play results; radio-style descriptions of play results; Addition of ZZ pitching rating; © 1986 and © 1995 printed on boards; Outfielder assists on extra-base hits varied with pitching grade; fly out to centerfield on play results 30 and 32 with two out and bases empty; Omission of infield rating
16	1999	First booklet; brown cover; premier edition (APBA 2000); tabs used for different base situations; © 2000 printed on back of booklet

17	2000-2001	50th Anniversary edition (APBA 2001); restoration of infield rating; © 2001 printed on back of booklet
18	2002-2004	First "66" booklet; traditional descriptions of play results; play result 12 with bases empty a grounder to thirdbaseman; ZZ-ball added to several base-situations; © 2003 printed on back of booklet
19	2005-2006	New K and R strikeout symbols; optional scorer's rule to adjust errors by season; © 2006 printed on back of booklet
20	2007	New artwork on cover; no changes in play results; © 2007
21	2008-2009	A few typographical omissions corrected; © 2009
22	2010-2011	One typographical omission corrected; © 2011
23	2012-2022	Larger size booklet, one change to play result was made © 2013
24	2022-?	Larger size booklet, no changes in play results; © 2022

Version 1 (1950 season)

The play results on the original APBA boards were closely patterned after those of an earlier game, National Pastime. Like the APBA boards, National Pastime listed 41 play results for each of the eight baserunner situations. The organization and wording of the play results was nearly identical between the two games. The major innovation in the APBA boards was the inclusion of pitching and fielding grades.

The original APBA boards were two large boards (14" high, 22" wide) with two base-situations on each side. One board had BASES EMPTY (on the left) paired with RUNNER ON FIRST BASE. On the flip side of this board RUNNER ON SECOND BASE (on the left) was paired with RUNNER ON THIRD BASE. The second board had RUNNERS ON FIRST AND SECOND BASES (on the left) paired with RUNNERS ON FIRST AND THIRD BASES, while on the flip side, RUNNERS ON SECOND AND THIRD BASES (on the left) was paired with BASES FULL. The large boards with this arrangement of base-situations were retained for the first six versions. The large boards were often found cut in half, presumably for ease of use. Curiously, when the boards were cut in half, the resulting pairing of base situations on opposite sides of each board was different from that in the later versions. For example, BASES EMPTY was paired with RUNNER ON THIRD BASE on the flip side. When the seventh version of boards came out with the 1954 and 1955 season games, there were four smaller boards with BASES EMPTY paired with RUNNER ON FIRST BASE on the flip side. The remaining boards had the conventional pairing of baserunner situations, which was retained for the next 40-plus years. The large size of the original boards required a large game box (15¼" high, 23¼" wide, 1½" deep). When the size of the boards was reduced, so was the size of the game box.

Beneath the play results on the original BASES EMPTY board were paragraphs describing the use of pitching grades, intentional walks, sacrifices, fielding grades, and playing the infield "in" or "deep". In the original game, there was no hit-and-run play, nor were there optional pitching, fielding, or base-running rules. These innovations were added to the game within the first five years. The original boards are easily identified by play result 41 on the BASES EMPTY board. In the original version, the error is given the shortstop for each of the fielding grades. In all later versions, the error is given to the pitcher for fielding two and the thirdbaseman for fielding one. The only known sets of the original boards belong to Richard Hormel (not verified) and Woody Studenmund.

Version 2 (1951 season)

The second version of the boards most likely appeared in the second edition of the game (1951 season). The date of the second version of the boards is uncertain because the only known set of these boards, belonging to Robert Henry, is not part of a complete game. Thus, the card season issued with the second version of the boards has not been verified. However, because the third version of boards is found in a complete game containing the 1952 card season, it is likely that the second version of the boards was issued with the 1951 card season. A number of revisions of the play results in the second version of the boards were minor (Type II), such as shifting an out from one fielder to another. However, other revisions were more substantial, altering the number of outs and placement of the base-runners (Type I). For example, with BASES EMPTY (play results 17, 19, 21, and 22) several errors were changed to outs for fielding one and two. In other cases, play results from one fielding column were simply exchanged for those in another fielding column (e.g., play result 38 with RUNNER ON SECOND BASE). This fine-tuning changed the relative defensive strength between the different fielding grades as well as changing the distribution of outs among the fielders.

Version 3 (1952 season)

The third version of the boards was included in a complete game along with the 1952 season cards. This game was purchased at an auction by Francis Rose, displayed at the 2002 APBA convention in Lancaster, and subsequently sold to me. Another copy of this version of the boards was owned at one time by Shea Smith. The third version of the boards contains minor revisions of play results 8, 9, and 10, in which the outs were changed from one fielder to another (Type II). Two of the revisions (play results 8 and 9 with BASES EMPTY) had been previously altered from the original version and, thus, represent a second revision of the same play result.

Version 4 (1952 season)

The fourth version of the boards was discovered on eBay in February, 2004, auctioned by Tom Heiderscheit on consignment for a friend. Another copy of this version was reported to belong to a complete game containing the 1952 season cards. Analysis of the changes in play results on these boards places it between the third and fifth versions. Notably, this version introduced the hit-and-run play, which was explained on the BASES EMPTY board below the instructions for the sacrifice bunt. The hit-and-run play was permitted only with a runner on first base. The hit-and-run play would be extended to runners on first and third in the eighth version of the boards (1956 season). Introduction of the hit-and-run play would have necessitated a new version of the sacrifice booklet with an extra page of play results. It has been reported (Bill Blair) that a separate hit-and-run sheet accompanied the original sacrifice booklet along with this version of the boards. It is curious that Mr. Seitz apparently chose to make these revisions midway through the season. Perhaps the stock of old boards and sacrifice booklets were nearing depletion, necessitating a resupply of both items.

Only a couple of changes were made in the play results in this version of the boards. The first, on play result 6 with a RUNNER ON FIRST BASE, allowed the runner to score when there were two outs. The second, on play result 7 with runners on first and third, removed the advance of the batter to second base on the throw to third. This was the first removal of the batter's advance to second base on play result 7; in subsequent versions, this advance was removed in additional base-situations. Apparently, Mr. Seitz was just beginning to realize that play result 7 allowed the batter to advance to second base all too often.

Version 5 (1952 season)

The fifth version of the boards is in a complete game housed in the National Baseball Hall of Fame library in Cooperstown. Another complete game, owned by Bill Blair, has this version of the boards. Interestingly, both games also contain the 1952 season cards, indicating that games sold with the 1952 season cards contained as many as three different versions of the boards. It is possible that games sold early in the year included the third version, while those sold later had the fourth and fifth versions. It is also possible that the fifth version of the boards was used in the following year with the 1953 season cards. However, a complete game exists with the 1953 season cards and the sixth version of the boards. Again, there is not a one-to-one correspondence between the version of the boards and season of cards.

On the BASES EMPTY board the following sentence was added to the instructions INTENTIONAL WALKS: "Intentional walks may not be called when the Hit and Run play or the Squeeze play is on." Many changes in the play results were made in this revision. On the BASES EMPTY board, play result 23 was changed from a hit-by-pitcher to an error for all fielding grades. On the RUNNER ON FIRST BASE board, play result 12 on fielding 3 was changed from a doubleplay to a fielder's choice. In general, many of the changes involved extra bases taken by runners on base hits (Type I). Also, there were alterations in the fielder making assists and putouts. In one case, play result 22 with base full, the play result with infield in, a doubleplay, was switched with that with infield deep, a pick-off play. These revisions demonstrate that Mr. Seitz was constantly fine-tuning the play results in the early years of the game.

Version 6 (1953 and 1954 seasons)

This version is part of a complete game containing the 1953 season cards. An identical set of boards is present in another complete game containing the 1954 season cards. The only revisions to the play results were the addition of ball and strike counts to play results 10 and 11 after a stolen base. In addition, a sentence was added on the bottom of the RUNNER ON FIRST BASE board stating, "When not otherwise indicated, the even numbers are balls and the odd numbers are strikes, if the play required a pitch and the same batter remains at bat." While these revisions are unlikely to change the outcome of a batter's plate appearance, they show the game-maker's attention to detail.

Version 7 (1954 and 1955 seasons)

This version of the boards was acquired separately from a complete game and, thus, it is only by inference that it can be associated with the 1954 and 1955 seasons. The revisions in the play results clearly place this version between the sixth and eighth versions. Because the sixth version came in a complete game with the 1954 season cards, and the eighth version came in a complete game with the 1956 season cards, it is likely that the seventh version was issued with the 1955 cards. Recently, however, a complete game was found which contained the seventh version of boards with the 1954 season cards. Thus, unless cards and boards were switched after purchase, it appears that the 1954 season cards were issued with two different versions of the boards.

This is the first year that the play results were printed on four smaller boards with the conventional pairing of BASES EMPTY opposite RUNNER ON FIRST, etc. The boards were printed on thicker cardboard stock with a glossier surface. The smaller size of the boards permitted the size of the game box to be reduced. The game box for this edition had the same blue-and-white printing used on previous larger game boxes. Optional pitching rules were introduced and described on the bottom of the RUNNER ON SECOND BASE board. Interestingly, in the original rules, 6 earned runs (later changed to 5) in 3 innings were required before reducing the grade of a pitcher. The rules for grade advancement are the same as in later years. The play results on these boards are nearly identical to those of the preceding version. Two changes were made, only one of which altered the outcome of a play. First, on play result 40, fielding one, with a runner on second, the fly out, runner taking third, was changed to an infield grounder, runner thrown out at third. Second, the putouts were altered on a doubleplay line drive on play result 25, fielding one and three with runners on second and third.

Version 8 (1956-1958 seasons)

The eighth version of the boards was in a complete game containing the 1956 season cards. Another copy of this version was reported (Bill Blair) to be in a complete game containing the 1958 season cards. The 1956 season was the season of major innovations, probably the result of Mr. Seitz being able to turn his full attention to the game. Base-running symbols (F,S) and pitching symbols (W,X,Y,Z) were added to the cards and boards and their use was explained on the bottom of the RUNNER ON FIRST BASE board. Sporting a new font, the boards also introduced optional base-coaching rules on the bottom of the RUNNER ON THIRD BASE board and optional fielding ratings on the bottom of the RUNNERS ON FIRST AND SECOND board. Curiously, the word "BASE" was omitted from this latter board, but was subsequently restored on a later version. Extensive revisions were made in the play results incorporating the new symbols. There were also a number of revisions to the play results that were unrelated to the symbols. An additional page was added to the sacrifice booklet permitting the hit-and-run play with runners on first and third. The new version of the sacrifice booklet was bound on the left side with dark-colored tape instead of the light-colored tape used in previous versions.

Interestingly, the roster sheet for the 1957 season includes for the first time the stern warning, "WE WILL NOT REPLY TO ANY CORRESPONDENCE WHICH PROPOSES TO QUESTION OUR SELECTION OF PLAYERS WHICH COMPRISE THE TEAMS LISTED BELOW". This statement may have resulted from the number of complaints about the composition of the 20-man rosters. However, the tone of statement contrasts with the otherwise friendly and welcoming sentences on the roster sheet from previous seasons.

Version 9 (1958-1959 seasons)

The ninth version of the APBA boards was in a complete game containing the 1958 season cards and may also have been used with the 1959 season cards. Evidence for this possibility comes from an eBay image of the boards from a complete game containing the 1959 season cards. The image shows that the BASES EMPTY board does not have the large letter, "A", in the lower right-hand corner, a change which was made in the next version of the boards (1960 season). Revisions of play results in the ninth version included additional X and Y strikeout results. Also, on several error numbers, play results were simply exchanged between fielding grades, usually exchanging an out for an error. On the bottom of the RUNNERS ON FIRST AND SECOND board, a new format was used to show fielding numbers used for optional fielding ratings. This format was easier to read than the explanatory paragraph in the previous version, although no changes were made in the rules for optional fielding.

Version 10a (1959 season?)

This version of the boards was only recently discovered (September, 2010) in a set of boards belonging to the trove of Robert Henry and sent to the author by Pete Simonelli. Because the boards did not come in a complete game, the corresponding card season can only be inferred by comparing the boards to those associated with complete games containing the 1958 and 1960 season cards. This is the first version of the boards to be labeled with the large letters "A", "B", "C", and "D" on the lower right-hand corners of the BASES EMPTY, RUNNER ON SECOND, RUNNERS ON FIRST AND SECOND, and RUNNERS ON SECOND AND THIRD BASES boards, respectively. A change in the rules for extra-base hits for players with double columns was denoted by a dagger on play result 6 on the RUNNER ON THIRD BASE board with an instruction to score the play the same as No. 5—a Double. Similarly, play result 2 on the RUNNERS ON FIRST AND SECOND board was to be scored as a triple for players with double columns. Further, play result 6 with BASES FULL was also to be scored as a double. Evidently, these changes were made to correct a skewing of extra-base hits that would otherwise occur on double-column cards. Finally, "batter takes second on throw home" was removed from play result 7 on the RUNNER ON SECOND BASE and BASES FULL boards. These are the second and third such removals, the first occurring in the fourth version on play result 7 on the RUNNER ON FIRST AND THIRD BASES board. However, "batter takes second on throw home" remains on play result 7 on the RUNNER ON FIRST BASE and RUNNERS ON SECOND AND THIRD BASES boards.

Version 10b (1960-1962 seasons)

This version of the APBA boards came in a complete game containing the 1960 season cards, and an identical set of boards was found in complete games containing the 1961 and 1962 season cards. The outside of these game boxes had a few minor changes, although the blue-and-white format remained the same. In the top right corner the line "Each Individual Player Performs" replaced the line "320 Players Perform". Evidently, an exact number of players was removed from the 1961 edition of the game to reflect the expansion of the American League to 10 teams for the 1961 season and anticipated expansion of the National League in 1962. Also, printed on the bottom of the box is "APBA GAME COMPANY, INC.", adding the abbreviation, "INC.", for the first time to the box cover and enclosed playing field. Presumably, APBA had become incorporated at some date prior to 1961.

Revisions of the play results included addition of "batter hit by pitch" on play result 22 with a runner on first. Previously, play result 15 was the primary number used for hit batsmen. Again, there were several play results that were simply switched from one fielding grade column to another. Optional pitching rules were also changed. A pitcher's grade was reduced after he gives up five earned runs in any three consecutive innings. Previously, the grade reduction did not occur until six earned runs had been scored. Further, a rule was introduced for raising the grade of a relief pitcher for the first batter faced. These changes were included in the instructions for optional pitching rules on the bottom of the RUNNER ON SECOND BASE board. Finally, one of the revisions (play result 20, fielding one, with runners on first and second reverted to the same play result used in Version 8.

Version 11 (1963-1966 seasons)

The eleventh version of the boards was found in a complete game containing the 1963 season cards. An identical set of boards was contained in a complete game with the 1964 season cards. Images of later complete games found on eBay indicate that this version of the boards was also used with the 1965 and 1966 season cards. Interestingly, during these years, a change was made in the way the cards were packaged inside the game box. Until the 1964 and 1965 seasons, the cards and envelopes were contained in a plain cardboard interior box. However, a new interior box, colored orange and blue, showing drawings of ballplayers, and exhibiting the price of $11.25 in a yellow circle, appeared in a complete game containing the 1964 season cards. Curiously, another game with the 1965 season cards has the old-style interior box. Even more bizarre was a complete game containing the 1962 season cards but with the new interior box exhibiting the price of $11.25. Go figure. The exterior game box also changed during this time period. Seasons as late as 1965 have been found in game boxes with the original blue-and-white colors. However, a new exterior box showing a picture of Hank Aaron housed cards as early as the 1964 season. Apparently, new boxes had arrived on the scene before the stock of old ones were depleted, and both old and new were used during this period.

Revisions of the play results in the eleventh version were minimal; only three changes were made, all indicating a different fielding play with two outs (Type II). There were three typographical errors made in this version, inadvertently dropping the words "out", "for", and "to" from three different play results.

There were several changes made in the instructions for play, presumably to clarify ambiguous points. In the pitching instructions on the BASES EMPTY board, one of the sentences was revised to read, " 'No Change' always refers back to the D, or left, column and always means a base hit." (The words added are underlined.) In the pitching instructions, a sentence was revised to read, "If it becomes necessary to use a fielder as a pitcher, he must be considered a Grade D pitcher with a fielding rating of 1 and a W. On the bottom of the RUNNER ON FIRST BASE board, a sentence was revised to read, "If this symbol (*) appear after their names on the line-up sheet but not on their cards, they should be used just seldom as starters." A sentence was also added, "Some pitchers' cards show both a starting and relief rating." On the bottom of the RUNNER ON THIRD BASE board a sentence was added to the optional base coaching, "4. The manager may 'play it safe' with respect to base stealing with runners on any of the three bases, not the batter. This nullifies both the successful steals as well as the throw outs." These changes fall into the category of ultrafine-tuning.

Version 12 (1967-1976 seasons)

The twelfth version of the APBA boards was included in a complete game containing the 1968 season cards. Images found on eBay indicate that this version of the boards may have been used the previous year, along with the introduction of the new game box. In addition, a new version of the sacrifice booklet was introduced, using plastic spiral-type binding (which did not age well), rather than the cloth binding of previous years. The price on the interior box holding the cards was increased from $11.25 to $11.95 using a sticker with the new price to cover the old price.

A new font (sans serif) was used in this version of the boards. Revisions of the play results were, again, minimal. Some of the revisions reworded the same play result in a shorter phrase, such as changing "runners to second and third" to "runners to 2nd and 3rd", undoubtedly to save space. "Balk" was changed to "ball" on play result 23, fielding one, with a runner on first. This revision presumably was a typographical error because "balk" was restored in the subsequent version. Play result 11 with a runner on second base was changed from a runner being thrown out at the plate with less than two outs to "Fast scores". Evidently, customers complained that too many Dodgers, with all their speed, were being thrown out at home, prompting Mr. Seitz to make this revision (Thanks, Veryl). Finally, the word, "BASES", was restored to the RUNNERS ON FIRST AND SECOND board. These typos and their corrections reflect the hazards of producing board revisions: old mistakes are corrected, but new ones are made.

There were several revisions in the instructions on the boards. First, on each of the playing boards, the word "Against:" was placed above and to the left of the each of the pitching grades. Previously, the word "Against:" appeared only above the Grade C Pitcher column. On the BASES EMPTY board, the following sentences were added to the pitching instructions: "Occasionally, pitchers may have A & C or A & B ratings. Always consider these pitchers as Grade A pitchers unless the A column happens to be a base hit. Then use the C or B column, as the case may be, for the final play result." A & C grades had been introduced on the cards as early as the 1964 season, but this version of the boards is the first to contain the instructions for their use on the boards. Also on the BASES EMPTY board, the sentence added in the sixth version of the boards, "When not otherwise indicated, the even numbers are balls and the odd numbers are strikes, if the play required a pitch and the same batter remains at bat" was replaced "If a dice roll is made and the same batter remains at bat, as on an attempted steal, etc., the pitch, if not specified on the board, should be considered a ball on even numbers (like 38) and a strike on odd numbers (like 39). However, it is not likely that four balls or three strikes will ever be reached in this manner." The intention of this revision presumably was to clarify the meaning of the replaced statement. Finally, on the bottom of the RUNNER ON FIRST BASE board, the following sentence was added to explain the use of split grades: "The first one is the grade used when he starts a game and the second one, followed by an asterisk (), is his grade only when he is used as a relief pitcher, such as D(B)."

Version 13 (1977-1984 seasons)

The thirteenth version of the boards was contained in a complete game with the 1979 season cards. This version was reported to accompany the 1977 season cards, (see Delphi Forum APBA message #16001.69). This is the first version to list play result 42 (hit by pitcher) on all the boards. Beginning with the 1971 season cards, play result 42 was given to players such as Ron Hunt, and the result (HBP) was explained on Hunt's card rather than the boards. The explanation of play result 42 on the player's card was retained through the 1983 season cards even though the boards also listed play result 42 (perhaps this was done to accommodate customers who purchased new card sets but not new playing boards).

Again, very few changes were made in the play results. Notably, on the BASES EMPTY board, play results 16 and 17 on fielding three were changed from simple errors to singles, with the batter taking second on an error. Also on the BASES EMPTY board, APBA introduced play result 14*, permitting the batter to steal second after taking first on a walk, but only when the bases were empty. Previously, beginning with the 1974 season cards, players such as Lou Brock were given play result 14*, with the explanation of the play result given on Brock's card rather than the boards.

There were several changes in the board instructions. As mentioned above, play result 14* is explained directly under the main body of play results. Under the pitching instructions, the following paragraph was added: "Certain players may have the numbers 7, 8, and/or 11 in the second columns of their cards. When any of these numbers is found in the second column of a player card, it is not subject to normal grade changes. Always use the left (grade D) column in these cases, no matter what the pitcher's grade is." On the RUNNER ON FIRST BASE board, the use of the J-factor was explained, "INJURIES: See Injury Duration Table on back cover of Sacrifice Booklet." Again, the J-factor had been previously introduced on the cards in the 1974 season and an injury duration table was included in a separate sheet of paper included in the game. On the RUNNER ON SECOND BASE board the following sentence was added to the grade reduction explanation for optional pitching: "An A&B pitcher is first reduced to A&C, then to A, etc. An A&C pitcher is first reduced to A." In the grade advancement instructions, the following sentence was added to the explanation that the A pitcher would not then be subject to a subsequent grade reduction: "He cannot, however, advance his grade beyond A. Likewise, A&C and A&B pitchers cannot advance their grades." On the RUNNER ON THIRD BASE board, the third section of optional base coaching (play it safe) was amended to read, "The runner on third then holds except on a hit or error, in which case he advances one base for each base the batter advances." (the phrase added is underlined). The fourth section of optional base coaching, which deals with nullifying stolen bases when playing it safe, added the following sentence: "If either runner is being held with Runners on First and Third, all double steal attempts are nullified."

Perhaps the most significant change in playing rules was made on the RUNNERS ON FIRST AND SECOND BASES board. Under optional fielding ratings, several of the fielding totals required to achieve a fielding grade were changed. First, the fielding total of the infielders, catcher, and pitcher required for fielding grade of 3 on play results 21, 22, 24, 25, 29, 33, and 34 was reduced from less than 32 to less than 30. Fielding 2 was reduced from 32-35 to 30-34. Fielding 1 was reduced from greater than 35 to greater than 34. Finally, the following sentence of explanation was added to this board: "When the third out of an inning is recorded on a tag play (at third, second or first) while a run scores (example: No. 16* in Fielding Three above), the run is always assumed to have crossed the plate BEFORE the tag occurred at the other base. The run, therefore, DOES count."

Version 14 (1985-1994 seasons)

The fourteenth version of the boards contained the copyright date of 1986 at the bottom of each board. By the 1994 season, identical boards were printed on thinner cardboard stock. There were no changes in the play results in this version. There was one typographical change made to play result 14 on the BASES EMPTY board. In the thirteenth version, play result 14 had a "see below" notation which informed the reader of the 14*. In the fourteenth version, this notation was omitted. Instead, there is a statement under the play results reading, "On certain player cards an asterisk (*) may follow a play number. If that number allows the batter to reach first or second base safely, AND IF THE NEXT BASE IS UNOCCUPPIED, he steals the next base on the next pitch, which is scored a ball." Also added to the bottom of each board on the left is "APBA PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL GAME" and on the right, "APBA Game Company, Inc. Lancaster, Pennsylvania". Previously, APBA had labeled its game "ABPA MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL GAME". Presumably, the major leagues reserved the right for use of its name, forcing APBA to substitute "Professional" for "Major League" to avoid having to pay a licensing fee. This change was also present on the game box, and was evident on the team envelopes, which now used the city name and "Senior Circuit" or "Junior Circuit" rather than the team and league names. This is the last known version to be printed on the large white boards.

Version 15 (1995-1998 seasons)

The fifteenth version of the boards appeared in games including the 1995-1998 season cards. The boards exhibit copyright dates of 1986 and 1995. One printing of these boards has "a division of SAI" printed on the bottom right of each page, while another has the MMI (Microleague Multimedia, Inc.) logo. This is the last version in which the play results are printed on individual boards; subsequent versions were printed in booklet form. The play results are color-coded in blocks (green for hits and errors, orange for outs, yellow for unusual plays and miscellaneous plays changed by symbols). The radio-like description of the plays, while imaginative, was more difficult to read because of the small font used. The actual result of the play was often obscured in the lengthy description and overuse of abbreviations. The boards also were issued in a black-and-white paper version in vinyl 3-hole punched protectors for convenience of use.

The playing instructions and optional rules, which had previously been printed on the boards, were instead printed in a separate booklet along with the sacrifice bunt and hit and run play results. Curiously, the optional pitching rules in the booklet were trimmed from those in previous years. Any pitcher allowing no earned runs in five innings increased his grade by one letter. Previously, pitchers with grades higher than "D" required more than five innings with no earned runs to advance his grade. Also, in this version of the rules, advances were limited to two letter grades. In addition, a relief pitcher entering the game during an inning was allowed to increase his grade by one against the first batter only if that batter bats from the same side as the pitcher throws. The optional fielding was also trimmed. Omitted was the infield grade, affecting play results 21, 22, 24, 25, 33, and 34. For these play results, the full team fielding grade was used. The changes in optional pitching and fielding rules apparently were an attempt to simplify the game rules (email from Eric Natftaly, Nov 25, 2006).

There were few changes in the play results from the previous version. The "ZZ" result was added to play result 14 with bases empty and runners on first and third. The "ZZ" result had been introduced previously for the 1990 season cards, and its use was described on the roster sheets for the succeeding years. Nearly all the other changes in the play results switched an out or error from one fielder to another. Curiously, this version was the first to list different play results for each of the pitching grades on extra-base hits. APBA used these extra results to vary the outfielder making the assist when throwing out a runner attempting to take an extra base. Also, on the BASES EMPTY board, play results 30 and 32 were switched to fly outs to CF when there were two outs. Evidently, the game-makers wanted to increase the number of fly outs to CF to match the actual distribution of fly outs. The other curious change was to assign ball one or strike one on unusual plays. Formerly, the rule had been to assign a "ball" to even numbers and "strike" to odd numbers when needed. For some reason, APBA did just the opposite in four play results with runners on first and third. Finally, there were a few typographical errors that crept in. For example, on the RUNNER ON FIRST BASE board, play result 32 is a fly to right field, but is scored F7. Similarly, play result 31, fielding 1 and 2 give F7 as the putout although the play is described as a fly out to center. These errors were corrected in the next version.

Version 16 (1999 season)

The sixteenth version of the game "boards" was the first to use a booklet format. The booklet was 36 pages in length and contained game instructions, play results, including those for sacrifice and hit-and-run plays, and a roster of players for the 1999 season. The cover of the booklet was brownish and was entitled, "APBA 2000, PREMIER EDITION". The first eleven pages included an introduction and instructions for playing the game and suggestions for playing in a league. The play results followed on the next pages, which were color coded and tabbed for ease of use. The radio-style descriptions of the play results were retained in this version.

The revisions in the play results were minor. The errors noted above were corrected, and the outfielder assists on extra-base hits reversed the changes made in the previous versions. In addition, there were a few changes made on infield outs, giving an assist to a different infielder. Finally, a typographical error was introduced on play result 12 with bases full. With infield deep, a doubleplay is recorded, 6-4-3, with the runner on third scoring, and runners left at first and third. Where that runner on first came from, no one knows, but he vanishes in the next version.

Version 17 (2000-2001 seasons)

The seventeenth version is also in booklet form, similar in size to the previous version. The cover is gray and is entitled, APBA 50th Anniversary, 2001. The instructions are similar to the previous version, but now restore the infielder rating for play results 21, 22, 24, 25, 29, 33, and 34. Curiously, however, the optional pitching rule allowing grade advancement for relief pitchers against the first batter faced is missing from the instructions to this version. This rule was restored in the next version of the boards. The play results are almost identical to those of the previous version. Again, a few assists were changed from one fielder to another, in one case, reverting to the identical play in version 15 (play result 26 with a runner on third). On play result 26, fielding one, with a runner on second base, the runner now takes third instead of holding. Finally, a Y-strikeout was added to play result 27, fielding one (a DP) with runners on first and third.

Version 18 (2002-2004 seasons)

This version is also in booklet form, sporting blue pinstripes and a blue spiral binder, and entitled with the new name of the game, SIXTY-SIX. The booklet bears the © 2003 on the bottom of the back page. The booklet contains instructions for the game, a checklist of players included in the 2003 game (which may have listed different players in subsequent years), and the play results, now reworded in the traditional style (non-radio). The tabs and color-coding was omitted from this booklet.

Several changes were made in the play results. Play result 12 with bases empty is now a groundout to the thirdbaseman (Type II). Play result 19 with bases empty against fielding 1 is now an error on the thirdbaseman with less than two outs. ZZ-ball was added to play result 14 with a runner on first, first and second, and bases loaded. On play results 30 and 32, the putout is given to the centerfielder when there are two outs with runners on first, second, third, first and second, and first and third. There were several other changes made in the error numbers on many of the base situations. Again, these revisions reflect the desire of the game company to refine the play results, often adding a variation to the play when there were two outs. Interestingly, some of these variations did not survive the next revision. One odd-ball change was made. With runners on first and second, fielding 2, play result 18 remains a single, but runners now advance only one base. However, a slow runner on first is thrown out at third. What was he thinking? This play result was corrected in the next version.

Version 19 (2005-2006 seasons)

This version of the play results is also contained in a booklet, entitled, SIXTY-SIX, and bearing a © 2006 on the back page. The booklet is slightly larger than the previous version and is bound with a red spiral. The instructions for play are unchanged, but now include an official scorer's optional rule that increases or decreases the frequency of errors, depending on the card season employed. There are images of two cards (Doug Flynn and Daffy Dean) annotated with explanations of the various numbers for the benefit of novices. A checklist gives the rosters of the 1953 Brooklyn [Dodgers] and 1953 New York [Yankees]. The pages giving the play results are color-coded for the different base-situations (however, no tabs). In addition, the play results are printed on a background of alternating pale yellow and pale blue line, which greatly facilitates locating a given result.

This version of the play results introduces two new strikeout symbols, K and R. K turns many fielding outs into strikeouts, while R turns play result 13 strikeouts into a fielding outs with bases empty or one runner on base. Thus, pitchers with exceptionally high or low numbers of strikeouts should now strike out the appropriate number of batters. Several changes in play results were made in the error numbers. Play results 15, 16, and 17 with bases empty, fielding two, were changed from fly outs to singles. Play result 36 with bases empty is now a walk for a W pitcher, while play result 38 is now a ball. Interestingly, on play result 7 with a runner on first, even a fast (F) batter does not advance to second on the throw to third. Also, on play result 8 with a runner on first, the runner now stops at second unless there are two outs. Thus, the running game, so rampant in the early versions of the boards, is further curtailed in this version. There were many other revisions of play results, one of which is worth noting. Play result 34 with runners on first and third is now a sacrifice fly to left (Y, strikeout) instead of an infield popup. Several of the familiar play results were revised, forcing the long-time player to double-check the results when using this booklet.

Version 20 (2007-2008 seasons)

In 2007, new artwork was provided to the cover pages, replacing the "66" name and logo with "APBA BASEBALL" across the page with a picture of a right-handed pitcher in mid-delivery sporting the number "66" on his back. There were no changes made in the instructions for play or in the play results, themselves. However, the booklet was ½-inch narrower and the text-width inside the booklet was somewhat smaller than its predecessor. This narrowing altered the spacing of numerous sentences, though the actual wording was unchanged. Several typographical errors remained uncorrected in this version. This version bears a copyright date of © 2007 on the back page of the booklet. Also, the booklet is bound not with a spiral, but with a connected series of 29 parallel blue binding loops. Because the spiral binding tended to work its way up the booklet and out of the bottom holes, the new method of binding provided a sturdier booklet.

Version 21 (2008-2009 seasons)

This version of the boards looks identical to version 20, but has the copyright date of © 2009 on the back page of the booklet. In addition, the binding loops are slightly larger than those used in the previous version. Thanks to the corrections supplied to the company by Bill Blair, several of the typographical errors were corrected in this version. However, with runners on first and third, play result 12 on fielding one still lacks the "*A-1B PO-P" which is present on the other fielding grades of this version and was previously present in versions 15-17 on fielding grade one. Previous to version 15, play result 12 lacked the two-out result on any of the fielding grades.

Version 22 (2010-2011 seasons)

The play results in this version of the boards appear to be identical with those of version 21, with the exception of restoring "*A-1B PO-P" to play result 12 with runners on first and third, fielding one. The booklet has a copyright date of 2011 on the back page.

Version 23 (2012-2020 seasons)

This booklet is larger than its predecessor, measuring 14 inches in height and 10 inches in width. This booklet has 29 pages, and each page is numbered. Each page also has tab labels on the right-hand side, permitting the owner to cut tabs for each of the base situations if desired. Although formatting differently, the wording of the quick start instructions and rule book was not changed. The two examples of cards were changed to Mike Trout and Stephen Strasburg. Advanced home run derby rules were added, and a special note on switch hitters who are rated "PB" is made. The booklet has a copyright date of 2013 on the back page.

There are a limited number of changes in the play results. Play result 35 with BASES EMPTY was changed from foul popup to the catcher to an unassisted ground out to the first baseman (old play result 12). The reason given for this change is that current ball parks do not have as much room behind home plate as did the older parks; thus, there is likely to be fewer foul popups to the catcher. This may be the only change.

Version 24 (2021 - ? seasons)

This booklet is identical to its predecessor, measuring 14 inches in height and 10 inches in width. The two example cards of Mike Trout and Stephen Strasburg have been removed. The advanced home run derby game's name was changed to clearing the fences game as was the APBA logo associated with the game. On the APBA advertising page a small change was made. It changed the number of player cards per team from 20-25 to 30 or more. There were no changes in the play results. The booklet has a copyright date of 2022 on the back page.

Revisions of the Sacrifice Booklets

Frank A. "Dusty" Welsh and Gus Kottis

The sacrifice booklet was originally issued as a separate booklet of play results to be used when calling for a bunt sacrifice with runners on base. As with the regular boards, the play results in the sacrifice booklet were revised periodically, and the booklet was issued in a number of versions (see Table of Chronology). The Table lists all of the versions known to the author; however, additional versions may exist. Versions "0", "0.5", and "1.5" were only recently discovered, and the decision was made not to renumber all the subsequent versions. Also, the years listed are approximate. The provenance (when known) of each of the versions listed has been documented, and the versions that were part of a complete game are noted. The complete games provide the card seasons to which the versions correspond. However, as was true of the basic game boards, there is not a one-to-one correspondence between the season and the version of the sacrifice booklet. In more than one case, different versions of sacrifice booklet were packaged in complete games containing the same card season.

Documenting the revisions of play results proved to be difficult. The sacrifice booklets could not be easily scanned or copied without removing the binding and, thus, damaging the booklet. Looking for subtle differences in the play results between two different booklets was especially susceptible to omissions. Only recently, a method was employed that greatly facilitated the process of comparing play results. Enabled by the voice memo application of a smart phone, the play results from one booklet were simply dictated into the phone. Subsequently, the voice recordings could be listened to while reading silently the play results from another booklet. While not sensitive to differences in punctuation or abbreviations used, this method was remarkably easy. In addition, it was possible to email the recordings to others for them to check against their versions of the booklet. In this regard, great thanks are given to Bill Blair, John Olsen, and Woody Studenmund for their willingness to check their booklets against my voice recordings.

Notable early revisions included the addition of the hit-and-run play, initially only with a runner on first base. With the phasing out of the regular playing boards in the 1990s, the play results in the sacrifice booklets were shifted into the new booklets as additional pages following the regular play results. Curiously, the pitching symbols (X, Y, Z, and W), introduced in 1956 to the cards and boards, were not employed in the play results on the sacrifice pages until version 12 in 2002. Among the revisions of the play results, many were minor, often shifting a putout or assist from one fielder to another (and sometimes back again). One of the most significant revisions was the transition on play result 13 (except for a runner on third) from a strikeout in versions 4 and earlier to a foul strike in versions 5 and later.

Version 0 (1950 Season). Woody Studenmund purchased this version from Shea Smith, who had acquired a complete game containing the original 1950 season cards, playing boards, and sacrifice booklet. The cover was labeled "Sacrifice Booklet" with a paragraph underneath explaining when to use the booklet and a few lines of other explanations. All of the cover printing was black, rather than red, and the cloth binding was light in color. The following pages contained the play results for each of the seven base-runner situations (i.e., runner on first base through bases full). The pages were tabbed to facilitate turning to a given base situation. There were no pages for hit-and-run plays. All of the play results in this original version are given in Appendix 1 at the end of this chapter.

Version 0.5 (1951 Season?). This version was belonged to the late Robert Henry. It was discovered by Pete Simonelli and given to this author on July 19, 2012. Because the booklet was not associated with a complete game, it is not possible with any certainty to associate the booklet with specific card seasons. However, the printing on the cover page of this booklet is black, indicating that it is a near relative of original version. In addition, "APBA MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL GAME" and "APBA GAME COMPANY • LANCASTER, PA." were added on the cover page. Examination of the play results revealed a few differences compared to those in version 0, most often replacing a successful sacrifice with a foul strike (see Appendix 4).

Version 1 (1952 Season). This version was contained in a complete game with the 1952 season cards. The game was purchased at auction by Francis Rose and later sold to this author. The cover of this booklet is printed in red rather than black. Three minor revisions of play results were made; in each case the assists and putouts were switched to an unassisted putout by the catcher or pitcher (see Appendix 4).

Version 1.5 (1952 Season). Two copies of this booklet are known. Bill Blair acquired a copy of the booklet at auction along with version 4 of the basic game boards, which is associated with the 1952 season cards. John Olsen acquired another copy from his brother, who had purchased the game in 1953. Thus, it is likely that this version of the booklet was sold in games containing the 1952 season cards. This is the first version that incorporated the hit-and-run play. The front cover of the booklet has instructions for the hit-and-run play with a runner on first base. The play result page for the hit-and-run play was inserted following the bases full page, but the page tabs were not altered from the previous version. Thus, the hit-and-run page does not have its own tab. There were numerous changes in the play results, most often simply switching play results from one number to another. In addition, several successful sacrifices were changed to fielder's choices or to double plays (see Appendix 4).

Version 2 (1952-1953 seasons). Bob Godby sent copies of this version to me on July 22, 2003. Bill Blair also has a copy of this version, which was contained in a complete game containing the 1952 season cards. The tabs for the sacrifice pages have been shifted to accommodate a tab for the hit-and-run play. Several changes were made in the play results. The first was to give the assist to the third baseman instead of the catcher on a few of the sacrifice bunts. The second was to eliminate some of the stolen bases after the batter reached first. Finally, a successful sacrifice replaced a single on one play result.

Version 3 (1954 season). This version of the sacrifice booklet was obtained in a complete game containing the 1954 season cards, originally owned by Richard Holtz, South Milwaukee. The booklet again is bound in a light-colored cloth/paper binding. There was only one difference from the previous version—a typographical correction, in which the sacrifice dagger was moved from the right-hand margin to the end of play result 11 with a runner on second base.

Version 4 (1956 season). This version was included in a complete game containing the 1956 season cards. An extra page was added with the play results for the hit-and-run play with runners on first and third. The binding of this booklet is dark-colored cloth. The font was also changed to match the font used on the cards and boards. At least one error was made in this printing—the assist and putout was omitted on play result 40 with runners on second and third. A number of changes were made in the play results. Speed (F,S) symbols were added to a few of the play results. Ball and strike counts were added to plays involving steals. In several cases, foul strikes replaced successful sacrifices.

Version 5 (1958 season). This version came in a complete game containing the 1958 season cards. Again, several changes were made in the play results, often swapping play results between different play result numbers. Evidently, with his full attention now focused on APBA, the game-maker continued to tinker with the finer details of the game.

Version 6 (1960 season). This version came in a complete game containing the 1960 season cards. Again, the sacrifice booklet was bound in dark-colored cloth/paper binding. Only one change was made in the play results. On play result 34 with a runner on first base the play result was changed from two strikes on batter to a fielder's choice, runner out at second, 5-6). One typographical error was also made—omission of the sacrifice dagger from play result 38 with a runner on second.

Version 7 (1968-1976 seasons). This version was included in complete games containing the 1968 and 1976 season cards. The font again was changed to match that used on the playing boards. The sacrifice booklet is bound with a plastic spiral. A message from jgcollins on the Delphi boards on 8/17/12 stated that his sacrifice booklet contained in a game with the 1967 season cards also had a spiral binding. No changes were made in the play results, but the wording was shortened on play results 9 and 18 with a runner on second substituting "1st and 3rd" for "first and third".

Version 8 (1977-1985 seasons). This version came in a complete game containing the 1979 season cards. The sacrifice booklet for the first time contains play result 42, hit-by-pitch. The optional injury table was added on the back cover of the booklet. On the bottom of the pages with a runner on third, the scoring instruction was amended. The original instruction is, "If the run scoring constitutes the winning run and it is the home half of the last inning, do not record any fielding credit. In such an instance there would be no play for the batter at first." The added sentence is, "Credit the batter with a SINGLE on such a play." On bottom of the page with the HIT AND RUN PLAY—Runner On First, the following instructions are given: "†On No. 13 (this page) and Nos. 13 and 14 (following page), the runner on first steals safely only if he has an eleven in the first column of his player card. Disregard second column 11's in these cases. IMPORTANT: When numbers 7, 8 and/or 11 appear in the second column of a player card, they are NOT subject to the grade changes described above. When these numbers come up in the second column, treat them as though a Grade D Pitcher is pitching. This is true for all base situations."

Version 9 (1986-1997 seasons). This version was included in complete games containing the 1986, 1994, and 1997 season cards. In the 1986 game, the sacrifice booklet was spiral bound with © 1986 added to cover. In the 1994 and 1997 games, the sacrifice play results appeared in a stapled pamphlet printed in black and white on both sides of each page. The printing was identical to the spiral bound booklet and with the version 8 booklet. Thus, there were no changes in the play results of this version.

Version 10 (1997 season). This version came in a complete game containing the 1997 season cards. The sacrifice and hit-and-run play results were color-coded, similar to the format used in the 16th version of the basic game boards and were included in an instruction manual with © 1986, 1995 on back cover. The play results were radio-style descriptions. This version omitted the sacrifice dagger on the play results 8 and 9 with a runner on second.

Version 11 (1999 season). This version was included in a complete game containing the 1999 season cards. The play results are contained in the APBA 2000 booklet © 2000 on pages behind the regular play results. The radio-style descriptions were modified, using fewer symbols and more words to describe the action. Some of the play results reverted putouts to those in version 8, for example, play result 12 with a runner on first. A few typographical errors were made in this version. Play result 33 with a runner on first has the firstbaseman covering second base. The sacrifice dagger was restored to play results 8 and 9 with a runner on second.

	RUNNERS ON FIRST AND SECOND BASES
39	The pitch…ball one…snap throw to 2nd…got him!!! Hope it was a daydream! [2-4]	The pitch: Ball one…snap throw to 2nd…got him! Gotta be awake out there. [2-6]
41	Bunted in the air…1B has it…goes to 2nd…now to 1st…TRIPLE PLAY!! Remarkable! [F3, 3-6, 6-4]	Bunted in the air. 1B has it…goes to 2nd…now to 1st… triple play! Amazing! [F3, 3-6, 6-1]
	RUNNERS ON FIRST AND THIRD BASES (squeeze play)
38	It's a pitchout…too high, and off C's glove! Both runners steal a base! Ball one.	It's a pitchout…too high and off C's glove. Both runners advance on the wild pitch. Ball one.
	HIT AND RUN PLAY – RUNNERS ON FIRST AND THIRD BASES
30	Skied to shallow LF…easy play. No advance from 3rd, runner returns to 1st. [F7]	Skied to shallow LF; easy play. Runner hold first and third.
35	Popped near the visitors' dugout…3B makes the grab! Nice concentration! Runners hold. [F5]	Popped near the photographer's pit. 3B leans over the rail and grabs it. Runners hold.

Version 12 (2000 season). This version came in a complete game containing the 2000 season cards. Again, the sacrifice and hit-and-run play results are on pages following the regular play results in the APBA 2001 booklet © 2001. Only one change was made in the scoring of play result 23 with bases full—rather than a 2-5-2-5, 5-4 doubleplay, the scoring was now a 2-5, 5-4 doubleplay. Better not to throw the ball around.

	Version 11 (1999 season)	Version 12 (2000 season)
	BASES FULL (squeeze play)
23	Pitchout! Rundown..OUT!...ANOTHER rundown… OUT!! Runner holds 1st! Daffiness [2-5-2-5, 5-4]	Pitchout. Rundown… OUT! Runner holds 1st. Daffiness. [2-5, 5-4]

Version 13 (2002-2004 seasons). In this version, the sacrifice and hit-and-run play results are in the SIXTY-SIX booklet © 2003 on pages following the regular play results. The descriptions of the play results were restored to the traditional style, probably using the descriptions found in version 9 as the template. Evidence for this conclusion is based on play result 39 with a runner on third, which gives the same scoring present in versions 1-9. Play result 33 with a runner on first reverted to 1-6, and play result 39 with runners on first and second reverted to 2-4. Other oddities in scoring were present in this version.

On play result 41 with runners on first and second, the shortstop assist is omitted from the scoring of the doubleplay. Play result 22 with runners on second and third mention catcher's interference and a balk on the same play. Play result 30 on the hit-and-run with runners on first and third gives no putout to any outfielder. There were many changes in the hit-and-run play results, often simply swapping results between play result numbers. Notably, play result 1 was changed from a homerun to a double.

Version 14 (2005 and 2006 seasons). This version is contained in the SIXTY-SIX booklet © 2006, again on pages following the regular play results. The booklet cover has a light tan background with blue pinstripes. The font used is slightly smaller than that of the previous version. Most of the changes are restricted to play result 14 on which Z and ZZ are now 2 balls, rather than 1 ball. On play result 41 with runners on first and second; the scoring of the triple play was abbreviated to "SS PO-2B", omitting the "PO-1B A-1B PO-SS PO-2B" used in version 13. Finally, the omission of designating the fielder making the putout on play result 30 on hit-and-run play with runners on first and third was not corrected.
